THE NATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO PREVENT TEEN AND UNPLANNED PREGNANCY

Don't Mess With Success

For those in Congress who want to eliminate or gut the federal evidence-based Teen Pregnancy Prevention Program (TPPP) and the Title X Family Planning program, the vast majority of the American public has a clear message: Don't mess with success. Support is widespread across racial/ethnic, political, and regional lines, as well as among all ages and education levels.

83% of adults overall support the TPPP (62% strongly support), which provides grants to communities for programs that are proven to help teens delay sex, improve contraceptive use, or prevent pregnancy.

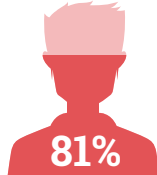

77% of adults overall support the Title X program (55% strongly support), which makes contraception and related preventive health services available to low-income individuals.
